THE BREAK BELOW.

Extent of the Story Crevasse.

Probable Loss by the Overflow.

The latest intelligence from the Story crevasse Monday evening was that the water had reached over the Dehonchel and Irwin plantations. The loss, it is estimated, which will result from this disastrous flood on these two places will not be less than $50,000. If this estimate proves to be correct, the losses of Messrs. Story, Dehonchel and Irwin alone will exceed $100,000.

As the entire swampy portions of country back of these plantations are now under water, it is considered to be highly probable that other plantations will soon be covered and their crops

RUINED BY THE CREVASSE.

Should a strong wind from the east prevail for several consecutive hours, it is contended that most of the plantations for several miles below the Slaughter-house and below the Story place, will suffer greatly from the effects of the flood.

An east wind would drive the water of the Gulf of Mexico into Lake Pontchartrain, through the Rigolets and Sound, thus swelling the water of that basin, and preventing the escape of the water from the crevasse. In consequence, the low lands of all plantations contiguous to the crevasse

WOULD BE FLOODED.

The planters thus vitally interested in the results of the crevasse meet at Mr. Story's plantation last Saturday afternoon.

They deliberated upon the question of an attempt to close the crevasse, and after making careful soundings, concluded that an attempt to close it would be futile, at the present high stage of the water in the Mississippi river.

Monday evening the break had enlarged to 200 feet in wid h, and was still increasing slowly.

Charged with Rape.

Manuel Lacoje, colored, was arrested Monday, on a warrant sworn to by Cecile Richard, which charged him with assaulting her, with intent to commit the crime of rape. The acres was made at the corner of Delhonde and Greatmore streets.

Falling Sickness.

Giromini Lagomarsi, a native of Genoa, aged 21 years, suddenly fell to the pavement while passing through the French Market Monday night. He was suffering from an attack of vertigo, and was sent to the charity hospital for treatment.

Another Warning.

A coal oil lamp exploded at the residence of Mr. Gerard Brown, 109 Carondelet street. The cause of the explosion was the rough of an attempt to supply the lamp with oil while it was burning. No damage except the loss of the lamp resulted.

A Prisoner's Case.

Monday night, Mike Hurley went to jail for assaulting and wounding Chas. C. O'Keefe, with a glass. The wound is not very serious. Both men are printers.

Slashed in the Shoulder.

Abe Johnson and Alex. Moore, colored, were involved in a difficulty at the corner of Felicity and Religious streets Monday night, when Moore resulted in Abe Johnson being cut on the right arm near the shoulder. Moore escaped. Johnson was sent home.

Criminal District Court.

In section A, Tuesday forenoon, Henry Hearn, charged with assaulting Emile Levy with a dangerous weapon, at Market and Royal, on the 23d day of last January, is on trial.

The grand jury is considering the case of the Hennessys and the charge of robbery against Belle Lee, Lottie Fiske and Lillie Hawthorne at the Basin street.

Louis Labatt was arraigned in section A Tuesday morning for carrying concealed weapons. He plead guilty, and was fined $5.

Atty. Gen. Blair, of Virginia, has given a decision that a colored citizen of that state has been improperly deprived of the right to vote on the ground of his conviction of a felony while a slave. He says that the man had no citizenship then and, of course, had no franchise of rights to lose, and that by victors of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments to the constitution of the United States, the former slave, he was habilitated with the status, citizenship and all of the rights of citizenship and all of the rights of citizenship.

RATION RETURNS.

Condition of the Mississippi and its Tributaries.

Nothing new relating to levees and their approval at the Chicago engineers's office this morning.

Messrs. Gillis and Scherck, the commissioners, have received since their last report applications for about 20,000 rations from parishes of Point Coupee, St. Landry, West Baton Rouge, West Feliciana, Concordia, Tensas, Ouachita, Madison, Richland. Twenty-two thousand people have been supplied with fifteen days' supply, since the first commission, March 14 h, which consumed the total of 216,000 rations furnished by the government commissary. It is probable that the 22,000 already supplied will make application again for relief at the expiration of the fifteen days.

To supply for 15 days the 20,000 applicants now on file will require fully 300,000 additional rations. The commissioners have received no official information of the passage of a bill through congress making further appropriations for the purpose of the month of distribution.

If no further appropriation is made the 20,000 applicants now on file will be first on the list.

CONDITION OF THE RIVER.

At New Orleans there was no change in the river at 7 o'clock in morning.

At Vicksburg it rose 0 1 inch was observing at 8 p. m. M nday. For the eight hours ending 6 a. m. Tuesday, 1.42 in fe s of rain fell at Vicksburg.

At 8 a. m. to-day a brisk north wind blowing at the rate of 24 miles an hour was observed at the New Orleans station.

From 6 a. m. to 11 a. m. to-day the thermometer fell from 72° to 56°.

There are no indications of more rain or colder winds so far to-day at New Orleans.

Ben Hill's Case Hopless.

Cincinnati Commercial special: Senator Hill of Georgia, remarked to-day to a friend who called to see him, "I do not like the well-bred long face and smiling lips and waiting for the end from Gr. 'He was easier than for some weeks. The hopelessness of his condition, whenever he is simply sitting, is so far from improving, that it is a matter of wonder to far to-day at New Orleans.

On the Report That General Grant Has Lost Terribly in Stock Gambling.

Chicago Tribune.

Broke, broke, broke,
In the city by the sea!
And the news comes in dispatches:
Flat busted is U. S. G.

Oh, well for the Stalwart man
As he shouts o'er his medal in glee;
Oh, well for the whole three hundred
And six who voted for me.

And the stately ships go on
To their haven under the hill;
But oh, for a look at Gen. Jones' fund
And the purpose of Logan's bill!

HOW ALLIGATORS EAT.

An alligator's throat is an animated sewer. Everything which lodges in it passes through it and out at its tail. It is lazy dog, and, instead of hunting for something to eat, he lets his victuals hunt for him. That is, he lies with his great mouth open, apparently dead, like the human Sam a big crawfish into it, then a fly, then several grass and a cockroach or mosquitoes. The alligator doesn't close his mouth yet. He is waiting for a whole drove of things. He does his eating by wholesale. A little bear is lying and will cool himself under the shade of the upper jaw. Then a few frogs will hop up to catch the mosquitoes. Then a snake will come and grate light on the frogs. Finally a whole village of insects and reptiles settle down for an afternoon picnic. Then, all at once, there is an earthquake. The big jaw falls, the alligator blinks one eye, gulps down the entire population, and goes off to graze from door again for more vi-i-o s.

Bayous of sardines are cautioned by the Brittany manufacturers to be careful as to the bands they choose. If they want the best fish, preserved when fresh in the best olive oil, they must get them from houses which have a name to lose. The cheap kinds are made with the lowest olive oil, they must have been spoiled by rolling on board the smacks; and the oil used are those of cotton seed or the Sen-gal ground nuts, chiefly. The best fish are those of so-called firms are imitated, and the worst qualities of all are prepared for exportation. The sardines appears to think it necessary just now to give a warning against those export sardines, and advise foreigners to buy only those which are guaranteed for the Sunset French market. The current wholesale price of these are given. There are three sizes, small, medium, and large (known as 4-6, 6-8, and 8-12), and only two qualities, first and second. The largest and best are now $13 the hundred tins, but the export kinds can be bought as low as $7 75 the hundred.

A wonderful amount of invention is expended in devising original contrivances for Parisian fancy bals. A lovely woman, who is noted for her taste in Paris for wit and beauty, gave one recently in which her guests represented a fruit garden. The ladies appeared as vines, cherry trees, currant bushes, strawberry plants, etc., and the gentlemen as apple and pear trees. One lovely creature in lily of the valley, was armore of adulation as a strawberry. Another was a kitchen garden with represented. The ladies were white and red turnips, cauliflowers, and radishes (the sweet-smelling onions and the suggestive carrot were neglected), and the gentlemen appeared as cabbages, beet-root, and celery. Some amusement was created at another fancy ball given by Mme. Goichard by the appearance of a newly married couple as cocks and hens, the cock being arrayed in golden brown leathers, with comb and spurs complete, and the hen in white satin and swansdown, with a silver feather tail and a small basket of golden eggs.

There is a wealthy brewer in Montreal who pulls a church, and inscribed on the "Tilla church was erected by Thomas Molson, at his sole expense. Hoiewes xx." Some of the McGill College wags get a ladder one night and inscribed on the pulpit, "and a bottle of ale, which the church was created by Thomas Molson, at his soul's expense. Hoiewes XX." New York Post.

An Italian who it is, perhaps, unnecessary to say has lived some time in America, has written a book complaining that it is a huge basin of petroleum under Vesuvius which keeps the Neapolis of that interesting mountain in a constant state of ebullition, more or less active. He therefore proposes to dig a tunnel at its base, tapping the lake, and then putting the mountain at rest and securing an inexhaustible supply of petroleum.
