

Felder, former Georgia attorney, to-night issued a statement in defense of Attorney General Daugherty. Mr. Felder said he had learned that a number of persons and many firms that violated laws with war contracts were interested in a scheme to discredit the attorney general and the Department of Justice so as to side track movements to bring them to punishment.

"The attorney general," he stated, "is not the type of man who can either be deterred or intimidated in the discharge of his duties. No individual in the government in private or official life, can influence him in the slightest degree.

"Several days ago I addressed to Senator Caraway a communication in respect to my employment to represent C. W. Morse in obtaining his release from the penitentiary and also in certain civil matters. It seems that he has read into the record what he designated as a copy of a contract Morse made with me."

Morse Reticent on Daugherty.

Bath, Me., May 20. Charles W. Morse, in a statement to the United Press tonight, said:

"My release from Atlanta prison was based entirely upon the recommendations of a board of expert physicians and nurses, as was stated at the time by President Taft and Attorney General Wickersham."

Asked concerning Attorney General Daugherty's connection with his release, Morse said:

"You may say that I refuse to af-
