A Strangely Fateful Desk in a Kansas School That Has Been Abandoned.

There is a desk in the Stanley school in Argentina that is no longer occupied, because it is marked by ill fate, says the Kansas City Star. The last three pupils it accommodated met violent deaths within a year and now it is used as a stand for plants and flowers that serve the double purpose of cherishing the memory of the unfortunate children and excluding others from the ill-starred seat.

Miss Selby, teacher of the room in which the desk stands, is not superstitious, but she will scarcely be blamed for her reluctance to assign any more of her scholars to occupy that particular piece of furniture. One year ago a bright little girl who sat in it was thrown from a horse and sustained injuries from which she died. Three months later Lee Jewett, a boy in the same class, who next used the desk, was drowned while bathing in the Kaw river, near Turner. Three men met their death while trying to recover young Jewett's body and the tragedy will long be remembered in Argentina. The last scholar to use the desk was Bert Jessup, aged 12, who, a week ago Saturday, went hunting for wild turkeys with another boy and a 22-caliber target rifle. The gun was accidentally discharged and Bert sustained a wound from which he died early the next morning.

The sad reflections inspired in the minds of teacher and pupils by the record of the year in that schoolroom have naturally developed a prejudice against the desk of fate that, in the case of the pupils at least, borders very closely on superstition.

JAPANESE PAWNBRORS.

Laborers Can Buy Their Daily Breads and Breakfasts at 10 Cents a Dinner.

Pawnbrokers in Japan are not allowed to charge more than 100 per cent. upon their advances—enough in all conscience, it would seem to Europeans, and yet not enough to satisfy the gentry in question, who demand the rate is wholly inadequate, says the London Leader. The Japanese diet has been considering the question of abolishing this restriction.

It appears that thousands in the large towns who subsist by manual labor find themselves constantly without money to buy their dinner, and have enough left to pay for their breakfast and bath, which they seldom neglect and which costs them about one farthing; but dining beyond their resources. It is the custom, therefore, to put every day some of their property in pawn in order to buy the midday meal; but in the evening when they receive their wages they redeem the pledged article, having just enough left to pay for their supper and breakfast.

Temporarily they go through regularly six days a week and their broker has to make nearly 30 entries in his books in the course of the month. The law lays down that only five cents can be charged in gold every day, and a loan of five cents for one year, and as most of these dinner loans do not exceed that amount the pawnbroker has to make his 30 cents or so a month for a sum of half a cent.

BABY MILLIONAIRES.

Some Fortunate Little Ones Who Have Been Born with Great Fortune.

There are many little people in the world who will have, as long as they live, their weight in gold every day. In the great Gothic mansion in New York is one little Vanderbilt baby, and another one in a grand palace in England. Every day these little ones ride in the parks in a fine carriage, with a coachman and footman, and every night they go to sleep in beds of lace and down. The fortune of either one of these babies is nearly $50,000,000, or many times their weight in diamonds. The one in England may also be a prince one day, and he is a marquis and several other things he doesn't know or care about just yet.

Then there are the children of the czar of Russia, who will have a great deal of money, and many others. But they will not all be happy, for riches do not make happiness, and some day perhaps any one of these little ones, who today do not know much besides being hungry or sleepy, will wish they could trade places with a healthy, cheerful man or woman, with their own way to make in the world.

A Hostile Bullet in Its Barrel.

At the world's fair there were exhibited from Tennessee two bullets which had met each other in midair, and also a muzzle-loading Springfield rifle into the barrel of which a metal bullet had found its way. This remarkable circumstance was duplicated at the battle of Colocan, an insurgent bullet having passed the whole interior length of the rifle in the hands of Private Stettinville of the Abilene company, in the Twentieth Kansas. Stettinville had just fired his piece and still had it at his shoulder when the insurgent bullet passed in at its muzzle. The bullet proceeded the whole length of the barrel, breaking the breechlock and forcing the empty cartridge to fly out of the upper part of its chamber. Gen. Otis heard of the occurrence and sent for the rifle, which he intends to send to the war department as a curio.

Was Too Poor.

A London beggar boy, who was asked at the police court how old he was last birthday, replied that he "never had a birthday, being too poor to have one."

MORMON PRIESTHOOD.

The influence is felt in Business, in Politics, and in Social Life.
The priesthood can always rely on the women. They have been the strength of the church, even under that system of polygamy which made them "living saints." They have the full right of suffrage, and none who is not in accord with the church authorities need look for their support. The men are subject to a constant discipline that keeps them at all times in sympathy with the ambitions of the leaders. There are 1,500 Mormon missionaries now in the foreign work of the church, the brightest of its young men, the future leaders in all matters. They are compelled to sacrifice everything and to labor for two or three years far from home in the interests of their religion, says the North American Review.

None who go through this experience ever forgets the power of the priesthood and each understands that if he should show too great a spirit of independence he may be called again to make the sacrifice. No young man in the church is allowed to marry until the temple unless he is faithful and obedient to his superiors, and no young woman would consider herself married in the eyes of God unless she has been "sealed" by the proper authorities. In business, in politics, in social life, everywhere, the young man meets the church, and he must be of iron if he dares to stand out against it. Many have done so in the past, but they have been the exceptions. Their numbers have never been sufficient to offset the church itself.

HER BRIDEGROOM'S UNIFORM.

She Wanted It to Be a Combination of an Admiral's and a General's.

One of the young gentlemen who have just been appointed in the regular army was married only a few weeks ago, and his bride took a great deal of interest in his uniform. He left his measure with a military tailor here the other day, and the next afternoon when she was out shopping she dropped in to give some instructions as to the manner in which it was to be trimmed, says a Washington letter in the Chicago Record.
She told the tailor she did not like the ordinary uniform of a second lieutenant and desired to have her husband's different. She wanted to have four bands of gold around the upper arm, like Admiral Schley has on his, and after critically examining all the shoulder straps she instructed the tailor to put on her husband's coat a pattern that had silver birds embroidered on them which were prettier than any of the rest.
The tailor tried to advise her that regulations did not permit a second lieutenant to wear the insignia of an admiral or of the navy or those of a colonel in the army, but she declared that if he would not make that uniform for her, she would make it herself. She had her husband patronize somebody else.

OF PHILADELPHIA, PA.
ROBERT E. PATTISON, - - - President.
F. W. GIBSON, Manager for Louisiana.

New Orleans, La., June 15, 1899.
To the public in general, and more especially to parties who have applied and been rejected for life insurance, The Security Trust and Life Insurance Co., of Philadelphia, Pa., F. W. Gibson, Vice President, Manager for Louisiana offers you a policy that is untraced by any company in the world, and is not subject to any of the conditions and annual dividends thereafter during the life of the policy. Do not despair if you have been rejected by some other Company for some trivial cause. The Security will accept you, if by an examination you are proved to be in good health. Many persons are rejected for some trivial cause, and they are not under the impression that they are not acceptable. Others are turned down on account of family history, when they are otherwise perfect. Heavy premiums are paid for insurance which is not equally qualified to insure without. Saloon keepers, or other persons engaged in the liquor business are acceptable with every other class of people. The Security will accept you, if you are not a member of any other policy holder firm, full protection to the full amount of the contract, second charging a premium which is not more than the rate of the insurance the insurance is issued. The General Agent, Maj. F. W. Gibson, will cheerfully answer any inquiries with regard to pending applications for insurance.
